Dear SC Public Service Commission,

I am extremely upset to hear about Dominion Energy's attempt to extort more money from their captive customer base. My daughter and I were in the process of getting estimates for a residential solar system from a local SC contractor when I read about this blatant cash grab from our local energy monopoly. This proposal is just as absurd as if Richland Co added a surcharge onto my trash removal bill because I have a compost bin.

With the climate crisis growing more serious every day and Dominion's 'stated' interest in renewable development and achieving net zero emissions by 2050, I would think they would be encouraging every homeowner possible to add solar generation capacity to the grid. Unfortunately, but not unsurprisingly, it seems they are more interested in gouging consumers for short-term profits to the detriment of the environment, local businesses, and the financial welfare of SC citizens. I am saying very clearly that under NO circumstance should this extortionate proposal or any others like it be approved; if it is, any lawmaker that supports it can kiss MY support goodbye forever!

Very Sincerely,

Betty & Christina Kidd
